Sk ati ng p art ies.

On the bank (about 25 ft from the water now) at the Edge of the ice a fire place was dug in the ground and some old irons used for grates [?] the top to build fires for skaters to warm their hands and dry their feet in case of too thin ice.

Library of Congress

All the Young folks would come here about once a week for a skating party and Weiner roast and they would skate have lunch and a general good time.

The main games were "Skinney - and "Crack The Whip" on ice. boy how some of us kids use to fall at this End of the whip cracker altho no one was seriously hurt.
